Jennifer Lopez Opens Up on Younger Men, Career Fears, and New Film

“I sat down with J. Lo at New York’s Mark Restaurant- her choice, as her new film “Parker” is being released. We talked food, younger men and Spanx.” – Gayle King.

Singer, actress, and "American Idol" judge Jennifer Lopez is set to star in the upcoming thriller, "Parker," opening in theaters across the U.S. on Jan. 25.

She sat down with Gayle King for a wide-ranging interview that touched on her favorite foods, underwear, and tech toys before the pair delved more deeply in Lopez's fears for her career and romantic life and her hopes for her children on the heels of her heavily publicized divorce from singer Mark Anthony.

The self-professed "hopeless romantic," told King that when it comes to love, "Some people just give up. I can't give up."

And while she is still navigating her divorce, Lopez is happily in a relationship with her former backup dancer, Casper Smart, who is 18 years younger than Lopez.

At first, she admitted that she "didn't feel ok with it for a minute ... I was like, 'What am I doing?'"

"I've always looked at relationship full future ... and now I'm just like 'It's ok to just be in the moment ... who knows where it's going. There's love here. Relax, just relax.'"
