Once Again, Everyone Who's Anyone Was at The Mark Hotel Before The Met Gala

By Juliana Shallcross

It's a step and repeat of sorts for The Mark Hotel. Once again, the luxury Upper East Side hotel served as the departure point for several glamorous celebrities heading out to the annual Costume Institute Gala at The Metropolitan Museum of Art on Monday night. Leading the stylish pack was, as usual Anna Wintour, who was joined by hotelier André Balazs, designer Michael Kors, actors Emily Blunt, Kate Hudson, and Adrien Brody, rapper Common, and a slew of models from Jourdan Dunn to Rosie Huntington-Whiteley and Kendall Jenner.

Here are just a few shots of the fashion elite exiting the hotel.

Not yet a celebrity? You can pretend to be while booking the hotel's "art of New York" package which includes a private guided tour at the museum of your choice, a personal chauffeur for 6 hours, an "Artist's Afternoon Tea" served in your room and a Special Edition "Cultivated Life" book by artist, Jean-Philippe Delhomme.

Of course, you'll have to have the bank to back this up. Rates start around $695 a night, before taxes, for a superior courtyard room.
